

Strömbergshyttan

För ca 2000 år sedan blåste en människa in sin ande i en glödande glasmassa och gav den form och funktion. Glasblåsarpipan hade upptäckts och med den ett nytt konsthantverk.

Metoden tillät och tillåter inte att man skapar exakt identitet mellan två föremål. Sättillvida är tekniken ofullkomlig. Men varje ting blir unikt. Glasblåsningen är en ofullkomlig metod att skapa fullkomlig skönhet.

Traditionen har levt vidare genom århundradena och glasblåsningen har utvecklats till ett av våra främsta konsthantverk. I vårt land är glaskonsten mycket högt utvecklad och Strömbergshyttan är en av dess främsta representanter.

Redan 1876 blåstes glas för första gången i Strömbergshyttan och därmed lades grunden till den internationella ryktbarhet som företaget och dess produkter åtnjuter i dag.

Det blåtonade glaset är en välkänd signatur i Strömbergshyttans produktion, som finns representerad över hela världen, bl. a. på Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, Corning Museum of Glass, New York, Victoria and Albert Museum, London, Buenos Aires Museum och Nationalmuseum i Stockholm.

Nearly 2000 years ago, someone blew into a glowing mass of glass and gave it form and function. The blowpipe had been invented and with it a new form of art handicraft.

The tradition has lived on through the centuries and glass blowing has developed into one of our leading art handicrafts. The art of glasswork is very highly developed in our country, and Strömbergshyttan is one of its foremost representatives. Every object made here has individuality and is a work of art of infinite beauty – offhand blown, hand-cut, hand-polished, and diamond-engraved.

Back in 1876, glass was blown in these glassworks for the first time, and with this the foundation was laid for the international reputation, which the company and its products enjoy today. Strömbergshyttan's blue-toned glass is a well-known mark distinguishing products, which are represented all over the world. They are displayed, among other places, in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; the Corning Museum of Glass, New York; the Victoria and Albert Museum, London; the Buenos Aires Museum; and in the Nationalmuseum and Nordiska Muséet in Stockholm.

The cased models have the following numbers for colours:

x 70 Ametist	x 75 "Sargasso"-green
x 73 Golden-yellow	x 76 Smoke-grey
x 74 Green	x 77 Brown
